Children and their rights—Proverbs 13:4

By DR. JOHN ADAMS

Moral Action Executive Director

Dr. Chuck Swindoll said, “Sometimes I meet parents who think that if they love their children enough they will never have to exercise corporal punishment. Few things could be further from the truth. Proverbs 13:24 doesn’t call that love: “Those who spare the rod of discipline hate their children.” That may make us gag a little, but that’s what God has said.

The simple fact is that fair, consistent, biblical discipline confirms your love for your child. Children don’t know how to behave properly without the security that discipline brings. Discipline is essential for learning self-control, but take note: correction and discipline should be given while upholding your child’s dignity and value.

Parents, not the government, have the primary responsibility for the education of their children. The late President Ronald Reagan in an address to the National Commission on Excellence in Education stated; “Parental authority is not a right conveyed by the state.”

The following are radical ideas being upheld by court decisions:

1. Children have the right to divorce their parents and receive alimony.
2. Children are eligible for minimum wages if they do household chores.
3. Children should be able to charge their parents with child abuse if they use biblical disciplinary measures.
4. Children have the right to sue their parents for being forced to attend church or to avoid going places with them.
5. Children and teenagers should have the right to decide whether to have an abortion, quit school, or to hire their own attorney.

The liberation of children by parents’ slackness has been under way for nearly three decades—so gradually that most parents are unaware of it. Christianity teaches that one of the most sacred of all rights and responsibilities of parents is to rear their own children.

I. WHAT RIGHTS FOR CHILDREN DOES THE CHILD RIGHTS MOVEMENT (WORLD FORUM FOUNDATION) SEEK?

John Eidsmoe, author of “God and Caesar” answers this question in behalf of Child Righters:

- A. Freedom from any kind of physical punishment. Sweden already has a law prohibiting spanking.
- B. Freedom from any type religious indoctrination. Parents should not be allowed to compel children to attend Sunday school and church.
- C. The right to divorce one’s parents, arguing that a child should not have to live with his parents if he doesn’t want to.
- D. The right to birth control information and abortion without parental knowledge.
- E. The right to choose one’s own sexual preference.

These so-called kiddie-libbers are certainly not pro-family and it is unique in that it is led entirely by adults. They have been instrumental in that three decades ago most states set the age of independence of 21, today’s legal coming of age occurs around 14.

II. WHAT ARE THE PRO-PARENTS, PRO-FAMILY POLICIES?

A. Promotion of the traditional Judeo-Christian values instilled in children by solid families and Bible teachings.

B. Advocating the restoring of parents to the overall educational process of children and teenagers.

C. Opposed the government’s role in facilitating and encouraging adolescent sexual activity.

Families, not government programs, are the best way to make our cultural and spiritual heritages perpetrated, and our values preserved. We must be strong on the family unit.

III. WHAT ARE GOD’S GUIDELINES THAT INSTILL STRONG FAMILY TIES?

Some people may ask with sincerity, “What would be wrong with giving children every right of adults?” The Biblical News Service publication answers, “Attached to every right is a responsibility! To give children all adult rights is to burden their immature and inexperienced minds with the responsibility of forming judgments and making life determining decisions which are difficult for even the most mature adults. This is child abuse in one of its cruelest forms!

Scriptures of God declare great truth:

Proverbs 1:8, 9 – “My son, hear the instruction of thy father, and forsake not the law of thy mother; for they shall be an ornament of grace unto thy head, and chains about thy neck.”

Proverbs 22:6 – “Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it.”

Proverbs 23:13, 14 – “Withhold not correction from the child, for if thou beatest him with the rod, he shall not die. Thou shalt beat him with the rod, and shalt deliver his soul from hell.”

Proverbs 29:15 – “The rod and reproof give wisdom, but a child left to himself bringeth his mother to shame.”

Hebrews 12:11 – “Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; nevertheless afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.”

Ephesians 6:1-4 – “Children, obey your parents in the Lord for this is right. Honour thy father and mother which is the first commandment with promise; that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth. And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath, but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.”

Every life is a gift

Raised in the inner-city of Philadelphia, both of Lee’s parents were alcoholics. Her dad spent most of his time in the basement of their home (which was plastered with pornographic pictures) emerging at times in great fits of anger, battering and abusing everyone in his path. One of five daughters, her dad made it clear that Lee was an unwanted child. There was no religious influence in the family, but when the Billy Graham Crusade arrived, she and two friends went “just for a few laughs.” That night Lee heard the gospel and prayed to receive Jesus Christ as her Savior. Her heart was changed, but the abuse in her home continued. After high school graduation, she moved to San Francisco with her mother and two little sisters where she accepted a job as typist. The new beginning she had hoped for suddenly turned tragic when a salesman came to her office one morning and returned that evening to rape her.

Traumatized and in shock, Lee escaped, promising never to share this secret. Dying on the inside, sick emotionally and physically, Lee went to the doctor and what she learned rocked her already turbulent world. Pregnant at age 18, she turned to her mother who told her to “leave and come back when it was all over.” Her girlfriend said this baby would mess up her whole life and offered to take her to Mexico for an abortion.

Looking back, Lee said, “Oh how I thank God there was not a Planned Parenthood Clinic in sight where I could have been tempted to go and get rid of this problem.” Instead, she headed to Los Angeles—crying out to God for guidance. The answer came in a broken down motel where a Gideon Bible lay open to Psalm 139. Relief swept over her as she read verses 13-19 and realized she was not an unwanted child as her father had said. She was an unplanned pregnancy. Suddenly it was clear. “Even though a couple may decide when to make love, God decides when to make life!” Her heart was settled. She would give birth to this baby and trust God to provide a loving family to adopt her. More than 20 years later, mother and daughter were reunited, and together they have shared their story on stage, on television and in a book titled The Missing Piece.

I met Lee Ezell in 1999 when she was keynote speaker for our New Life Celebration Ladies’ Conference in Dallas. Her story was compelling. Equally inspiring is the message from Lee’s daughter, Julie: “Yes” she said, “I am the result of rape, but I am so glad I did not get the death penalty for the crime of my father!”

Today as loud voices clamor for the right to take innocent lives, let’s remember that God Almighty is present in the womb, shaping and forming each baby into a marvelous work of art. May this truth ring out with new clarity and with strong resolve calling all people everywhere to value, guard and protect our little ones because every life is precious—a gift from our Creator! (Psalm 139; Jer. 1:5)

INSIGHTS for PASTORS

Killing Sacred Cows

By DR. ALLEN TILLEY

All churches have sacred cows—things that are no longer useful or relevant but are still revered by some in the church. It might be a classroom, a chair, a ministry, an order of service, or some other long-held tradition. Dealing with a sacred cow head-on can be disastrous, leading to the end of a pastorate. Here's how I've learned to deal with sacred cows.

Make it a matter of prayer. Overcoming sentimental attachment is difficult. In your prayer time ask God to reveal any ill-will on your part, to help you see things from the other viewpoint and to help you handle things with grace. Then pray that God would soften the hearts of those who are attached to the sacred cow. Do not proceed until you saturate the situation with prayer. Only God can change hearts.

Is it worth the fight? When I was younger, I made everything a test of faith. Now that I'm older and battle-scarred, I realize that sometimes the best course of action is to take no action at all. If it doesn't affect the health of the church, leave it alone. Stirring up people for small or insignificant incidentals doesn't impact the kingdom. Your goal as a pastor is to rally the people to join God in doing something significant in your church and community.

Whatever you do, do not place yourself in a position where it's me against them. If you do, you will lose because many people see the pastor as being temporary.

Start alternatives. If you meet an immovable object, then don't move it. Begin other programs or activities that will eventually replace it. That way you won't be accused of killing off a sacred cow. Those who are ready to move forward will join you, and eventually the results will be evident to all concerned. When starting something new, be sure that it is not seen as an alternative or competition but another source of ministry or avenue for doing ministry. This will diminish any pushback from the other side.

Let it die. If left alone, sacred cows tend to die of natural causes. Just remember no one can champion a dead cause forever. Time has a way of erasing many of the problems and problem people that we face in ministry. The problem comes when we try to rush the situation. Again, if it isn't hindering the gospel and you can wait it out, then leave it alone. If it is causing a problem, then follow the other steps I've outlined in this column.

Enlist others. Before confronting a sacred cow, always build a consensus. However, don't form an attack group. Unruly mobs seldom do things in a godly way. Instead, find faithful prayer warriors and influencers who share your vision and who can help you in circumventing the sacred cow. If you can't find vocal allies, then you may be the problem.

Point out why the cow needs to die. If you can't leave the sacred cow alone, then lovingly and biblically show why the cow needs to be removed. Explain the benefits of killing the cow and how ministry can be more beneficial without the cow. Understand that not everyone responds logically, especially if they are tied to the cow out of sentiment. Be patient; give the Holy Spirit plenty of time to work. By moving slowly, you give people time to grieve. Losing a cow can be heartbreaking.

Dr. Allen Tilley is pastor of First Baptist Church of Carthage, Texas. He has over 30 years of pastoral experience, and God has continually blessed his ministry with dynamic spiritual and numerical growth. Contact him at allen@firstbaptistcarthage.com.

Teaching Responsibility

By JASON CURRY

Responsibilities are one of those things that don't come naturally. Have you ever noticed that? You never have to teach a child to be lazy or not do what they should do. It's so important to help our kids know responsibility.

At my house it's that time of year for more outdoor responsibilities. My yard is growing tall like trees with the rain and each of my kids has a job to keep the yard in good shape. It can be a challenge keeping everyone safe and busy when they are drastically different ages. And let's face it, the yard will never look as good if I'm doing it myself. But the opportunity to teach new skills and equip my sons for manhood is worth the effort.

At church, there are kids who "want" to learn responsibility. Is there a job that one of your kids can do? Greet people at the door, take the offering, young believers opening the service in prayer, taking a role... kids are craving opportunities to have a job and feeling trusted to do it.

So, one very simple thing you can do is give jobs away. And remember it will not be done perfectly. But the opportunity to teach new skills and equip children to serve in the church as followers of Christ is well worth the effort.

Our kids at TBHC want so badly to have self-respect, self-worth and self-determination. Our foster and adoptive homes are trying to teach kids that it is not the "self" that establishes us. It is God who gives us our approval, value and purpose.

An important aspect of this is helping our kids learn life skills and how to make healthy choices that are best for them, not just what they want in the moment. Teaching responsibility, and how to do a job well, are all part of raising kids to be a part of our world.

Our kids don't know how valuable they are to God because most of the people they know (that are supposed to be God's ambassadors) have "proven" again and again they aren't wanted. No one wants any child to feel this but it is a reality we face each day in foster care.

Join us in helping kids know that God has a great job for them, that they are wanted and matter. TBHC is taking opportunities to help kids know they are worth every effort! Thanks for helping bring kids home!

National WMA chooses new project for 2019-2020

By KELLY WILLIAMS

National WMA Project Promotion Committee Chairperson

When the National WMA met in Rogers, Arkansas, we celebrated reaching our goal for last year's project, We Are FREE. The National WMA gave $60,000 to We Are FREE to furnish the first resident' home (which houses 12).

There were two projects nominated for the 2019-2020 National WMA Project. They are the remodeling of the Baptist Missionary Association of the Philippines printing building into a training facility for national missionaries, and the Missionary Care Ministry led by Bro. Jerry Kidd. The ladies chose the Missionary Care Ministry for our new project.

The project promotion committee, as well as several national officers, met with Bro. Jerry and Mrs. Sue Kidd regarding how we can help this year. Bro. Jerry shared what the Missionary Care Ministry has been doing and what they would like to be able to do in the future for our American as well as our national missionaries around the world.

This ministry provides coaching and counseling to missionaries on an ongoing basis in order to help them stay longer on the field. They also have provided conferences for the missionaries so that they can meet one another and be trained further.

The group set a goal for this new year of $85,000. All the national WMA Officers, as well as the committee, are willing to come and speak to your district or local group about this project. Bro. Jerry also stated he is willing to come and talk about the project.

The video will soon be available on the National WMA website (nationalwma.org) for you to download and show your group. There will also be a pdf file of the brochure available soon there as well.

If you have any questions, or you would like someone to come and speak, please contact Kelly Williams, -project promotion chairman, at kelgirl0805@gmail.com or 214-534-9875.

A word from your missions office

By HEITH MITCHELL

If God calls us to follow him in doing something we can expect a few things to be true:

1. The task will be true to the Word and reflective of the heart and mission of God.
2. The task will be God-sized and not something we can reasonably tackle.
3. The task will directly highlight our weakness and his glory.
4. The task will require faithfulness and faith.

I see all of these realized in your Texas Missions Movement and especially as we labor and pray towards 100 new churches in Texas by 2029. Let's examine each:

1. Your Texas Missions Movement is squarely focused on the mission God has left us with. We are focused on sharing the gospel and making disciples all over this growing state among the current generations. This is our focus and that focus results in new churches being started and existing churches being revived. We are focused on this while being true to the principles and instructions given to us in the Word of God.
2. God always asks us to step out in faith and follow Him in doing God sized things, not us size things. We are not left to ourselves. It is a faith journey we are on and our faith grows when we trust. It grows when we see the power of God on full display. When we realize our limits are not our limits in Christ. The story of every Bible character is an example of this. All of us involved in your Texas Missions Movement are aware that we are engaged in a God-sized task, wrestling territory that the enemy controls for the King and His Kingdom. This is dangerous, overwhelming and defeating work. But we have victory in Christ Jesus!
3. I set at my desk writing this overwhelmed with the truth of this. My weakness is really the only useful thing I have to offer God. It is useful to Him because when He shows Himself mighty through me and there is no danger that I will rob Him of his glory. Doesn't God always use the least likely? Again every character in the Bible is an example of God showing himself through an unlikely candidate. I do not doubt what God can do through an East Texas farm boy or the motley crew of missionaries and support workers he has assembled. None of us are a gift to God but we are a vessel He can use to make Himself known.
4. Your Texas Missions Movement is constantly stepping out in faith while seeking to be faithful. There are currently 28 church planting engagements while the Lord continues to open new doors. We know that our role is to remain faithful to the mission and to care for each mission and each missionary while serving each of you. We believe that the path to 100 churches is a path of faith and faithfulness.

Will you join us in prayer and commitment to:
PROJECT 2029
100 New Churches/10 years

That we see an aggressive multiplication movement of churches who make disciples, equip and release leaders and start churches for the glory of God and the advancement of his Kingdom Mission

That each new mission begin with a plan to begin three new churches in their first 10 years

That pastors and churches of the association be encouraged and equipped to start new churches

That we connect, evaluate, identify and train new prospective church planters

I would love to come and share Texas Missions with your church or association. I have open dates and look forward to hearing from you.

Prayer Needs:

Continue to pray for the hearts of our regulars and future members that the Lord would prepare them to be actively seeking out and making disciples. Pray as well for the hearts of those who confess Christ but express no desire to know Him more. Pray for us as pastors, that we would be patient with them and lean on the Holy Spirit's work in their hearts and not on our own efforts. We are also still looking for someone to help us lead worship, so prayer for that is greatly appreciated.

Thank you for faithfully partnering with us in the labor of making disciples in Lubbock through your prayers and financial support. This month we were able to see the fruit of three people who turned from their sins to trust and followed Jesus. Two of them are a couple that have read the Bible with us for almost one year. The other man is a research scholar at Texas Tech University that is originally from China. God opened his eyes to see Jesus as his only God and Savior after one month of reading the Bible. He came to the US not knowing about the Bible and Jesus. He will go back to China in six months

NATIONAL WMA MINISTRY CONFERENCE

National WMA met May 6-7, 2019 in Rogers, Arkansas. Last month in Baptist Progress we reported on the National WMA Business Meeting which was held on May 6. This month we are focusing on the Women’s Ministry Conference which was held on May 7 at Temple Baptist Church, located just a few miles from the convention center.

As each lady made her way through registration she received a beautiful hand-carved piece from Ghana, Africa.

Sabrina Clayton, song leader, led the ladies in a beautiful selection of songs. Brenda Hornaday, Second Vice President, gave a heartfelt welcome to all attendees.

Lane Flint, GMA/YLA Promoter, introduced Autumn Herring the National Miss GMA. Autumn led a moving devotional based on Joseph and how God places us in situations to show His glory and radiate His love to others. She also shared her life verse, Romans 8:28.

Judy Wallace, Jerene Reddin, Marita Yerton, formerly of the Lifeword Trio, sang a beautiful rendition of Be Thou My Vision.

Keynote speaker Judy Wallace brought a wonderful Spirit-filled message titled Be Thou My Vision. She spoke about how our Heavenly Father needs to be our vision at all times and in all things. So we can continuously be reminded of who He is, who we are, what He has done for us and what we need to do for Him. Scripture was read from Isaiah 6:1-8. Judy also shared an alphabet of praise to God which stirred our very souls. You can see a video of Judy’s message on the WMA website, www.nationalwma.org/national-meeting.

Charlotte Johnson, first vice president, had a special presentation to Minister Wives and Widows. She spoke of their dedication to the Lord’s work and the blessing they are to many people. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS

Power over possessions

By PAUL GAUNTT

DATE: July 7, 2019
TEXT: 1 John 2:28-3:3

THE HOOK

Let's get to know the writer of the epistle in which we study this quarter. The author is the Apostle John—the author of John's gospel, the three epistles of John and the Book of Revelation. In his latter days, John was banished to Patmos by the Roman government, and according to tradition, as presented in the writings of Tertullian, it was not before he was boiled in oil while in Rome. But he suffering nothing from it. It was on the Isle of Patmos, that he received the Revelation of the end times and a fascinating word picture of Heaven. John was a witness, alongside Peter and James, of Jesus' appearance on the Mount of Transfiguration with Moses and Elijah. This same John never mentioned himself by name in his gospel, only to refer to the "apostle that Jesus loved." He was reclined nearest to the Savior, and the Savior loved him to the extent that He left his mother under the watch care of John (John 19:26-27).

These wonderful epistles of John were obviously addressed to believers in Christ as he addressed them as "my little children." They were words of comfort as well as exhortation to abide in Christ.

THE BOOK

1. He exhorts us to ABIDE in Christ (2:28-29). This cannot possibly be an inference that to fail to abide in Christ is to lose salvation since believers cannot be separated from Christ (Romans 8:38-39). Rather he is challenging us to live a lifestyle which will result in our being confident—without fear—at His coming. But John is also emphatically stating that practicing a lifestyle of righteousness is indication that one has, indeed, been genuinely saved. A genuine believer can have his or her life on earth cut short because of failure to obey Christ (the sin unto death—1 John 5:16).

2. He encourages us to be ASSURED of the Father's love (3:1-3). (a) God has extended His love to us through Christ Jesus; (b) He has granted us the blessed identity in Him by naming us "The Children of God;" (c) He has given us a way to be assured of our relationship with Him by reminding us of our alienation from the world (1 John 2:15-17; Romans 12:2-3).

3. He assures us that we shall ASCEND into glory to be with him forever (3:3). We shall see Him face to face.

THE LOOK

Always be cognizant of your identity in Christ—you are a child of God: Always insure that your life exemplifies a life of righteousness in Christ, and that you are assured that you will not be ashamed at His appearing.

Say no to sin

By PAUL GAUNTT

DATE: July 14, 2019
TEXT: 1 John 3:4-10

THE HOOK

There are at least three basic attitudes toward God: (Acts 17:32-34) There are the rejectors—those who reject His grace, delighting in delving into sin. Their every activity celebrates and obsesses over a sinful lifestyle. They arise in the mornings longing to sin some more. They have rejected God (Romans 1:25-26). Secondly, there are the pretenders: They will seek to postpone a confrontation with God. They have no knowledge of God, but are just play-acting the role for selfish gain or to escape the pressures of overbearing parents or friends; and then there are the believers: those who answered the call of the Holy Spirit to be saved, and who strive to walk with Him, and feel overwhelming guilt and remorse when they stumble in their Christian life.

THE BOOK

1. Sin is the transgression of the Law (verse 4). For the lost, it is a lifestyle, but for the believer who still wrestles with the flesh, there is a Spiritual Compass within us, pointing us to Christ, and sensing the need to confess sin.

2. Christ is the answer to our quest to hopelessly live uprightly in the energy of the flesh (verse 5). Christ, being God incarnate in the flesh, took upon Himself the load of all sins which were committed from Adam on down to the final human born on earth. He was the God-Man—100 percent God—100 percent man. He knew no sin, yet he was tempted just as we are, only more intensely.

3. Whoever abides in Him seeks, at all cost, to avoid sin and its effects (verse 6). We do not acquire salvation by living a sinless life of perfection—but the salvation of the Lord enables us to live a life void of the practice of sin.

4. Whoever abides in Him, will be confronted by a spiritual warfare (Romans 7). The Apostle Paul knew the struggle very well. Anyone who strives to walk in the righteousness of Christ will have this internal turmoil. It is an effective indicator that one has passed from death unto life. The devil's crowd is not in his cross-hairs—he already has them; but the devil has his scope leveled on God's beloved.

THE LOOK

Are you a child of the King? If so, it is not revealed in a sinless life of perfection, because none of us can accomplish that. But it is in persevering against the wiles and temptations of the devil gaining continual victory in Christ. Every victory over our flesh gives us additional spiritual strength. This is known as God's sanctifying work in His beloved children.

The preeminence of love

By PAUL GAUNTT

DATE: July 21, 2019
TEXT: 1 John 3:11-18

THE HOOK

The task of evangelizing the world can be described in five words: "Sharing the love of Christ." But those who live in darkness do not comprehend Christ's love. Everyone is familiar with the three types of love: Eros—erotic, self-serving lust of the flesh; Phileo—brotherly kindness and Agape—unconditional love—a love which loves the unlovely, seeks no recompense, keeps getting trounced upon and yet, continues to love. It is a selfless love. Furthermore, Agape is the love which characterizes the heart of Christ as He gave His all, that we might have eternal life.

THE BOOK

1. The contrast between good and evil (verse 12-13). Cain's hatred for his brother Abel, in Genesis 4, so appropriately illustrates the spirit of love and hate in our world today. An evil heart contains resentment, jealousy, rage, and murder. Cain brought "the firstlings of his flock" to the Lord which was pleasing to Him. But the Lord rejected Abel's insincere gesture of giving of the fruit of the ground.

2. The evidence of a loving heart (verse 14). "We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death." To forsake the assembly (Hebrews 10:25) should cause one to question his or her own relationship with the Lord when they refuse to fellowship with believers. A loving heart is also demonstrated by sacrificial giving (verses 16-18).

3. The evidence of a depraved heart (verse 15). It is not the act of murder that sends a person to hell—it is the depravity of an unregenerated heart that causes one become unloving or murderous.

THE LOOK

This lesson behooves everyone who studies it, to search our own hearts, and make sure of our calling to salvation.

Confidence from God's Spirit

By PAUL GAUNTT

DATE: July 28, 2019
TEXT: 1 John 3:19-24

THE HOOK

The Spirit of God—the Holy Spirit, is so absolutely vital to the life of a believer. The precious Holy Spirit convicts us of sin and error (John 16:8); He helps us in our prayers (Romans 8:26); He guides us into all truth (John 16:13); He comforts us (John 14:26).

THE BOOK

John continues to emphasize the urgency for us to be confident before Christ when He returns for us. He assures us in verse 20 that even when we have a heart of conviction, and feel ashamed, God is still greater than our conviction and knows exactly what is in our hearts. Whether we are laden with guilt, or have bold confidence, we can approach God, with a contrite spirit.

In verse 22-24, we are assured that when we come to him in confidence, and obedient faith, with love in our hearts toward one another, we can know that we have passed from death to life because the Holy Spirit lives in us.

THE LOOK

The book of 1 John is replete with verses that can help us to know that we have passed from death to life.

Blessed be God, brothers, who has given us of His Holy Spirit and who has promised to be with us until the end of the world. I believe that without that promise I would not have the courage to continue doing the missionary work. Now, I understand why Moses and other servants of God wisely obeyed and continued with faith as if they were looking at the invisible (Hebrews 11:27). It is necessary to continue talking about the love and hope of God for humanity through Jesus, but also to understand that not everyone obeys the gospel. But it is necessary to proclaim the whole counsel of God. Some, sadly, by discarding the good news and not obeying the truth will be judged. It is not easy because there is a great opposition, but the Love of God acts in our Hearts to continue advancing. Blessings for all of you brothers.

▲ Jaime Garcia

Prayer Needs:

Thank you for keeping me in your prayers. I believe that without your prayers none of this would be happening. Your support of the missionary work is of great importance, and I need you to always include me in your prayers. God is doing great things. Connect. Connect. Connect. That's what we are focusing on here in west Texas. Church planters are finding new ways to make connections in their small towns, I am finding ways to connect to churches and pastors who might embrace the vision of being a mother church, and the missions department is finding ways to better connect our planters and their families with the BMA work and one another. Please pray for these connections. Every one of them is critical to the success of God's mission here in west Texas and across our state. Who knows, it might just be that you and your church end up being the answer to that prayer. If so, give me a call and let's see what God wants to do!
